"WELCHED" AT THE GUTTENBURG TRACK.

"Mose" Levy, Frightened at Supposed Losses, Leaves the Ring Without Cashing His Tickets.

"SNAPPER" GARRISON'S QUEER WORK

Autocrat Suspiciously Ridden by Flynn, but No Action Taken After the Judges' Investigation.

HERE was an overdose of excitement at the Gutten. burg race track yester. pleasant and fully five thousand people were in attendance. Fifty-five bookmakers shouted the odds at the beginning of the sport, but after the third race that number was reduced by one. And that one was a "welcher." His name is "Mose" Levy, and Al Ferrow, being the winner of the event in question, caused him to leave. There were but three of the five entries in this race that went to the post, the competitors of Farrow being Clamor and Iceberg, neither of which had a living chance to win. Levs's book took in $737 on Farrow to win and Iceberg for the place-the latter a small amount-in which positions they finished. Without accurately scanning his sheet Levy became frightened and skipped, leaving everything but his money behind nim. He was quickly missed when Thomas F. Eagan, who has charge of the betting ring, got into the box and returned to Levy's customers the money they had invested, after which the bookmaker's sheet told the story that if he had paid all his tickets he would have lost only $133 on the race-a very small sum to 'weich" for. The club officials expect that Levy will settle with them, and to remind him that they think he will do so without delay, sent two detec tives after him last night.

Autocrat, in the six furlongs race, fourth on the card, was a big favorite. A large amount went on him. He got away last and for three-eighths of a mile didn't run even a little bit. Then he improved his position and, in the latter portion of the struggle, came very fast, finally finishing second. Flynn was on his back. The judges considered Flynn's riding very suspicious and after the races officially investigated it. The jockey's story was that his right toot slipped from the stirrup just as the flag fell, and before he could replace it found himself a bad last. Then he couldn't get a show until the stretch was reached, when he did all he could to win. "Jimmy" McCormack, owner of Autocrat, proved that he had $300 on his horse, and so with other extenuating testimony the case was dropped, but Judge Burke afterward said that if he ever saw a case of suspicious riding Flynn's work was that one.

The following event also furnished a sensation. It was of one mile and was for three-year-olds. Seven started, and among them were "Jimmy" Shield's Sir George and "Snapper" Garrison's Guildero. The former was a 7 to 10 chance, and a good deal of money went on him. He won, with Taylor up, without trouble. Garrison's trick was second. and at the post was 6 to 1 for the place. It was a and at the post was 6 to 1 for the place. It was a selling event, and as Sir George was brought up to the stand to be sold Garrison, so Shields says, domanded $200 as the price of his net hidding the winner up, his entrance figure being $800. Shields refused to give the "Snapper" a cent, and then reported him to the indges. Garrison was the only bidder against Shields, and the latter had to buy his colt in at $1,150, which was $250 more than he entered him for, and, consequently, he was out just that amount because of the Snappers" interference. The Executive Committee also looked into this case after the sport was over, but the result was only a warning to Garrison not to repeat his "funny" work on that track. There is no rule covoring this species of race track "blackmail," which is a great pity and should be remedied it possible. "blackmail," which is a great pity and should be consided if possible. Rancocas, the favorite, won the opening race of

WARD RELEASED TO BYRNE.

B. Day and J.W. spaiding for two hours. The details of the new organization to be inco porated under the laws of the State of New Jersey were first gone over, and Judge Bacon and Attorney Redding were then instructed to go ahead with the final business to be transacted at Trenton. When the subject of players came up the follow ing letter was read from the Brooklyn Players' League club, asking for the release of John Ward:-

League club, asking for the release of John Ward:

New York, Jan. 22, 1891.

To the Directors of the American Exhibition Company and New York Haseball, Lubrican Company and New York Haseball, Lubrican Company of the Brooklyns, Limited, a club identified with the late Players League in the city of Brooklyn, respectfully asyon to permit us to avail ourselves of the services of John M. Two lists of players were then produced, and a long discussion was finally ended by the appointment of Messra. Day and Talcott as a committee to have the sole power to release or sign whatever men they should see fit. Their selections will be made known in a few days.

I saw President C. H. Byrne, of the Brooklyn club, yesterday. He was in high glee over the prospect of securing John Ward to captain and manage the Bridezroums this season. He said:—

"I think I will have no trouble in arranging matters satisfactorily with Mr. Ward. He is a valuable ball player, and can actor to pay Ward as much money as any club in the country. Ward will strengthen my team twofold, and what is more, he will just about best out Ewing, too. He will be given full control of the players, and will not be subjected to suggestions from the directory."

Turning to J. W. Spalding, who stood near, Mr. Byrne said:—"That New York team of yours will not be in the race with us this year. We'll beat you out of sight, as well as Boston, Chicago, Philadelphia and the other big League teams. Keep your eyes on the Brooklyns."

President Byrnes had a lone talk with John Ward and Catcher Tom Kinslow in the Jt. James Hotel last night. Ward told me he was perfectly willing and anxious to play in Brooklyn this year if he could make terms with the Brooklyn club. He said that if he captained the new "Wonders" he would have a seam tnat would give all the League clubs a hot race. Ward added;—

"The New York team individually is the strongestin the country, but the Brooklyns will beat it out to a moral certainty this year. We will have the pick of the Brooklyn Players' League team, if cortain conditions are lived up to, and with the old reliable players of last year's Bridegrooms, Brooklyn enthusiasts will not have a losing team."

It can be stated in the most positive way that Louis Bierbauer has not signed a contract with any club. He wants to play in the same team with John Ward.

A. G. SPALDING FOR CHAIRMAN.

MR. MILLS SUGGESTS HIM FOR THE OFFICE TO THE NATIONAL BOARD.

A. G. Mills has positively declined the position of chairman of the National Board of Control. In his letter to the members of the Board he gives as his reason the pressure of business, but he makes a most excellent auggestion in proposing the name of A. G. Spalding for the office. The following extract from Mr. Mills' latter auggestion in proposing the name of A. G. Spalding for the office. The following extract from Mr. Mills' latter expisits the situation:—

"Your Board, as thus far made up, consists of three men conspicuous in haseball affairs—all of whom are well known lawyers in active practice. These, without any addition, would constitute an ideal hoard for the trail of calment and with the discharge of all functions of a property of the state of the state

Spaiding.

Mr. Milistold me yesterday that Mr. Spaiding would undoubtedly be elected and that he would be compelled to accept, too. Mr. C. H. Byrns laughed at the idea of his becoming chairman of the Board, and said he would not accept the position if offered to him.

Professional Fighters Compete for the Instructorship of the Manhattan Athletic Club

The final houts in the boxing competitions of the Standard Athletic Club, of Greenpoint, were fought in Turn Hall, on Greenpoint avenue, Brooklyn, last evening, and furnished as good sport as has any event of the kind in a long, long time. Few of the stars of the amateur ring were among the entries, but the new blood that was developed proved of such a high order as to warrant the belief that several of the present champions will not long retain

The best man shown was J. Devlin, of the West Side A.C., of this city, who carried off first honors in the light weight class, after polishing off two good men. The first to go against him was "Mika" Harris, of the Clinton A.C., who received such a fearful drubbing in the first round that only the call of time saved him from a clean knockout, The second round saw him receive another and a similar dose of punishment, ending in a knockdown that finished him. Devlin's left hand swings were remarkably well aimed and well timed, and they always landed effectively. Devlin's striking powers are simply wonderful. This was his first public appearance, and when he gets a little experience it will take the best of the middle weights to beat him.

In his second encounter of the evening Devlin made the face of "Jerry" Suilivan, of the Clinton A. C., look like a piece of raw meat. Sullivan's great ability to endure punishment alone kept him on his feet to the end of the three rounds, FRANTAMS SPILL BLOOD. M. Joyce, of the Phonix A. C., and T. Keefe, of the Clinton A.C., were the first pair to show in the bantam class. Both were hard hitters, and there was slugging enough in each of the three rounds to keep the spectators in an uproar. The judges keep the spectators in an uproar. The judges could not agree upon a winner and Referee Creamer gave the fight to Keefe.

J. McKeeg n, of the Star A.C., and F. Fitzpatrick, of the Nonparlel A.C., were the next to meet in this class. They were so evenly matched that the judges could not agree, and the referee ordered a fourth round. Once more the judges differed, and the referee decided in favor of McKeegan.

McKeegan easily defeated Keefe in the final bout, MULINS THE HEAT OF THE FEATHER WEIGHTS.

B. Mullins, of the West Side A.C., and W. McDonald, of the Nonparell A.C., made a ratting set-to in the opening bout in the feather weight class. It was hammer and tongs throughout the three rounds. Mullins clearly outclassed his opponent and got the decision. McDonaid's face was covered with blood at the end, Mullins' right henders proving very effective.

Mullins met Robert Reilly, of the Standard A.C., in the final bout in this class. The judges disagreed, and the referee decided in favor of Mullins.

J. Hoche, of the Star A.C., and "Rody" Mahoney, of the Palmetto A.A., were the only pair to show in the special 125 pound class. Mahoney had the best of it throughout, and won with ease.

MIDLE WEIGHT SLUGGERS.

In the middle weight class Charles Schuhardt, of the American A.A., and Burt Rodin, of the Standard A.C., gave the spectators a sample of real old fashioned singging. They punched and pounded cach other all over the ring until in the third round, when Rodin was all but done for and the reteree stopped the fight and declared Schuhardt the winner.

FIGHTING FOR A CLUB POSITION.

OF THE MANHATIAN A. C. When the new Manhattan Athletic Club house on Madison avenue was opened and everything running smoothly, it was deemed the proper time to select a suitable instructor in boxing, which had long been determined upon by the club officials.

There were many applicants for the position, which was considered peculiarly advantageous for many reasons. eants finally narrowed down to Dominick McCaffrey, whose pugilistic reputation is well known, inasmuch as he had faced big John L., and once in the long ago obtained the verdict in a four round bout with Charley Mitchell; "Jimmy" Dougherty, of Cambridge, Mass., supposed to be the equal in skill if not superior to George Godfrey in skill if not superior to George Codirey, the colored fighter, who recently defeated E. J. Smith, cf Denver, Col., the latter, by the way, also a candidate, but who graciously withdrew in favor of McCaffrey. These were the heavy weight boys who desired the saug Manhatan berth. Then equally earnest in their applications were the lighter weights, Walter be Baun, of New York, whose reputation as a skilled amuteurhas long been known and recognized, and Walter Campbell, the present boxing instructor of the Athletic Club of the Schuylkill Navy, of Philadelphia.

New York, whose reputation as a samed amitted thas long been known and recognized, and walter Campboll, the present boxing instructor of the Athletic Club of the Schuylkill Navy, of Philadelphia.

So these were the four whose claims of being able to successfully fill the Manhattan position were recognized by the committee as such as to require time for the full consideration of the merits of the men before a selection was made. The more the committee talked about the matter the more the committee talked about the matter the more they were puzzled, and finally it was deciled that the applicants should be privately tested before a small number of the members in addition to the club officials. This test took place yesterday at the club house. Every preparation had been made for the event. Ed Smith was chosen referce in the bout between McCaffrey and Dougherty, who were the first to appear before their critical andience. Mr. H. B. Coombs, the club's boxing director, and S. J. Cornell, chairman of the Athletic Committee, were the judges. The pugllists went at each other in a most determined manner, showing themselves to be full of grit and exceedingly clever. McCaffrey, however, soon showed more prominently than his opponent, his leads being frequent and particularly effective. The first round was unquestionably in McCaffrey's favor. The second was even more determined than the first. Each did his utmost to knock the other out, and it could not be denied that the tost had drifted into a scientific and beautiful glove fight, McCaffalso had the best of this round. The third round ended the test. Both had "bellows to mend" from their very exhausting work, but they did well, and retired with much applause from the lookers-on. Referce Smith immediately passed his decision in writing to the judges, who in turn announced that McCaffrey had been adjudged the winner.

Then De Baum and Campbell came together. Jack McAulific, champion light weight juglist of the world, was behind De Jaum and Arthur Chambers urged Campbell and

AFFAIRS OF THE RAILROADS.

WESTERN BOADS DIVIDING UP EMIGRANT PAS-SENGER TRAFFIC.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE MERALD.] Chicago, Ill., Jan. 24, 1891.—Chairmen Finley, Midgley and Donald, of the Northwestern passenger pool, made their first order to-day for division of traffic. It was on the Wisconsin Central, and directed Traffic Manager Barlow, beginning to-day, to take no more east bound emigrant business, but to turn it all over to the Northwestern and Burlington and Northern lines. None of the lines know the totals of the November and December traffic, on which the order was based. Traffic Manager Barlow says he will live up to shanager Barlow says he will five up to the agreement and and obey the order, but upon his complaint Chairman Finley has called a meeting for next Wednesday to discuss the order. The chairman also issued an order on Commissioner Former, of the trunk lines, instructing him to so route the west bound emigrant traffic that the Chicago, St. Paul and Kansas City should get $3,400 revenue from it, the Northwestern 7,500, the Burlington and Northern $5,000 and the Athert Lea $1,500. This traffic to be diverted at once.

the Burlington and Northern $5,000 and the Albert Lea $1,500. This traille to be diverted at once.

Some of the Western lines propose to fight the Central traffic and trunk lines on the notification of the latter that they would not allow the Western lines to pay commissions in their territory after February I. The main cause of complaint is that the Central traffic and trunk lines refuses to allow the Western lines to pay commissions in territory which will have to be reached by crossing any part of Central traffic or trunk lines territory. The penalty is a boycott on the offending road. The matter will be brought up at the next meeting of the Western Passenger Association.

President Van Horne, of the Canadian Pacific, is in the city to look after his interests at next Monday's meeting of the Commissioners of the Western Traffic Association.

There is a surprising difference of opinion in regard to the agreement. One of the men most prominent in forming it told me that it was effective at the close of the New York meeting. Another assured me that it would only be effective when all members of the existing association signed it.

President John M. Egan, of the Chicago, St. Paul and Kansas City road, and Judge Lusk, the general counsel of that road, strived here to-day from the East. While in Boston they completed a contract with the Chicago. Burlington and Quiney people by which they are to have the use of a portion of the Burlington tracks at St. Joseph. Concerning his indictment by the fedoral grand jury at St. Paul President Egan said:—"If do not feel in the least disturbed, because I believe it is an error that will be easily rectified when the case comes to trial."

The agreement entered into a few weeks ago by the Chicago-Ohio River roads to sell only continuous tickets from Chicago, Pittsburg, Detroit and Indianapolis to Chattanooga and other Southern points has alroady been broken. The new order of things was to have taken effect January 20, but it is claimed that the Monon did not observe it. General Passenger Agent Ford, of the Pennsylvania, has, in consequence of Monon's course, given formal notice that the agreement is abrogated, so far as his company is concerned, and that he has resumed the sale of unlimited tickets.

ITEMS OF BAILWAY NEWS. The earnings of the Canadian Pacific Bailway for the week ended January 21 were $293,000, as against $234,000 for the same period last year—an increase of $59,000.

The lower House of the Nebraska Legislature has adopted a memorial to Congress by a vote of 85 to 6 asking the Nebraska delegation to demand the immediate foreclosure of the mortgage on the Union Pacific road.

Ex-Governor Frederick Smith, president of the Concord and Montreal Railroad Company, speaking of the rumored consolidation of the Concord and Montreal and Boston and Maine systems, states emphatically that the management of his road will continue to operate its main lines and branches without any reference to any outside lines, connections or coalitions, excepting such business contracts with other roads as may be necessary. The firm of Albright & Co., coal dealers at Buffalo, has sold its business interests in that city to the Fhiladelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company. The property includes the firm's big storage tresties and its interests in the Central Dock and Terminal Railroad Company's tresties and docks. The purchase price is $450,000. UNPLEASANT WEATHER COMING.

FORECASTS OF THE HERALD VERIFIED AS TO THE SOUTHERN STORM.

As predicted in the HERALD weather forecasts, prepared on Friday night and published in yesterday's paper, the barometrical depression noticed in the Gulf regions on Friday morning manifested itself vigorously along the Atlantic coast yesterday. Cautionary signals were displayed from Wood's Holl to Cape Hatterns, and the indications for to day in New York and vicinity are anything bus favorable.

The area of depression in the South yesterday The area of depression in the South yesterday morning was central over Montgomery, Ala. It passed rapidly in a northeasterly direction, and at eight o'clock last evening was central over Norfolk, Va., at which place rain was falling violently.

The storm will probably proceed along the coast, reaching New York at an early hour in the morning. The wind, blowing from the southeast, will increase in velocity as the storm advances. Along the southern New England coast the indications are that it will prevail to a dangerous extent today.

The storm will be accompanied by a copious fall of rain. The temperature may fall.

The indications are that the storm will continue until Monday evening.

An area of extremely cold weather prevails in Dakota. It is not at all unlikely that a cold wave war follow the atom.

BARNEST PLEAS FOR THE PRESERVATION OF ADIRONDACK WOODLANDS.

A meeting of the New York State Forestry Association was held yesterday in the lecture room of the American Museum of Natural History in Central Park. Morris K. Jesup, president of the association, acted as chairman. Among others scated with him on the platform was ex-President Grover Cleveland.

President Jesup said that although it was the first public meeting of the association there had been in a quiet way created a strong public sentiment in favor of forest preservation that was powerful enough to carry through any proper measure to effect that end.

Judge E. Warren Higley was introduced as the first speaker. He aptly termed his address "s plea for practical forestry." He said in part:—

"Forestry is a science and a business, Forests can be preserved and perpetuated in the midst of a teeming population only through a scientific system of administration." Judge Higley considered the waste of forests, showing by the census of 1880 that within ten showing by the census of 1889 that within ten years 10,000,000 acres of forest had been destroyed, resulting in a loss of $25,462,250. Lumbermen, charocal burners and tan bark strippers are also enemies of the forests.

† DULLIPING UP, NOT CASTING DOWN.
The speaker referred to the natural advantages of America in its forest possessions. He said that since 1887 France had expended over $4,000,000 to referent land, and that that government contemplated the expenditure of $34,000,000 for the same purpose.

to reforest land, and that that government comtemplated the expenditure of $34,000,000 for the same purpose.

While the older countries were thus engaged New York State was neglecting her forests and permiting irreparable devastation. He advocated promptand efficient legislation to preserve the forests, stating that the commercial prosperity and supremacy of the Empire State depended upon the waterways, which were seriously impaired at their sources by the forest devastation.

Ellis H. Roberts, Assistant United States Treasurer, said that the neglect of the forest of the Adirondack watershed amounted to nothing short of a crime. He deplored the inaction of the Legislature and said that if the citizens of the State could but appreciate the anormous value of the forests to commerce they would insist upon the establishment of the proposed Adirondack Park.

Mr. A. W. Gleason proposed the most radical measures of any of the speakers. He stated that if he could have his way no lumberman should ever enter the woods unless he left his axe behind him.

The Rev. Dr. Lundy, president of the Fonnsylvania Forestry Association, spoke of the desolation of certain portions of the Adirondack region.
He closed with an earnost plea for the preservation of the forests for sanitary and hygienic purposes.

Committee, ex-President Cleveland was introduced

MR. Cleveland's RECOMMENDATION.

Mr. Cleveland said that when he was Governor of the State he became convinced that the destruction of the Adirondack forests would seriously affect the commerce of the State. He had recommended a bill prohibiting the sale of forest lands belonging to the State. The bill became a law, and for the further preservation of the forests wardens were appointed.

"I have seen the waste places in that region," he continued, referring to the Adirondacks, "but have seen a much worse waste place—the Capitol at Albany. If we would preserve the forests of the Adirondacks we must begin by doing something at Albany.

Adirondacks we must begin by doing something at Albany.

"What we ought to do, Mr. Chairman, is to apappoint a committee of 160, empowered to visit Albany to take each Senator and Assemblyman by the ear and lead them to the waste and desolate places, that they may observe the devastation caused by their neglect."

Mr. Cleveland closed by advocating the co-operation of all those owning forest land in the Adirondacks. He said he believed that the owners would agree to such legislation as would permit the regulation of their property in common with the State lands.

State lands.

"Let us get to work at once," he added. "A little done now will be worth a great deal in the future."

The meeting closed with a stereopticon exhibition by Professor Bickmore of the forests of the world. NO SUCH CORPSE FOUND.

JERSEY CITY'S POLICE MYSTIFIED BY A MURDER

STORY FROM THE "LAVA BEDS." A cordon of police was drawn about the "Lava Beds" of Jersey City vesterday morning at about three o'clock. The stale beer dives were closed and with very few exceptions the children of in perial Rome, who exclusively inhabit the tumble down quarter, were at rest in sleep.

Steathly Sergeant Gaynor, accompanied by some score of Jersey City's "finest," closed in about the 'Lava Beds' just as General Miles closed in upon Pipe Bidge Agency. Four swarthy Italians were arrested in their several domiciles and torn from the embrace of their weeping spouses and were soon lodged at Police Headquarters. The only resistance met with was from a sturdy

I went into Colgate street yesterday just as some half dozen wearers of the blue were engaged in turning up the subsoil of the cellar at No. 78 with their long night sticks. Mony interesting things were brought to light, including costumes that were worn in the "Lava Beds" some ten years ago.

"Pasquale disappeared some ten months ago," he said, "and I have never heard from him since. I wish they had found his body, though, as they won't give me the seventy-free cents that Pa quale had in a Mulberry street bank until I can prove his death."

At Police Headquarters the disappointment was taken philosophically. There was a very general belief that Sico had given them a false story, and the lawyers of the force were putting their heads together to decide how to punish him for it. In the "Lava Heds" there was a strong popular indignation against the police.

Costa was liberated resterday on bail, but the other men were not allowed to go.

"We may find the corpse in another cellar," said Sergeant Gaynor, hopefully.

FOUR RUNAWAYS IN CENTRAL PARK STOPPED BY

MOUNTED POLICEMEN. Mounted Policeman J. F. McKenna made a thrilling rescue in the Park yesterday morning. Miss McEckin, of No. 38 East Thirty-ninth street, took a spirited animal from one of the riding academies at eleven o'clock yesterday morning, and while riding through the Fark the horse took the bit in his teeth and started off at top speed. The young lady screamed for help, and Roundsman Egan and Patroiman Newell started in pursuit of the runaway.

Patroman Newell started in pursuit of the run-away.

The Park hacks were no match for the riding acad-emy horse, however, and were soon distanced.
The flying horse, terrorized by the woman's screams, tore madly along followed by all the mounted people on the cast drive. The horse went down the east drive, over the terrace bridge and down the west drive. The young lady held her seat and did her best to hold the maddened animal sent and did her best to hold the maddened animal in.

Policeman McKenna, who was on the west drive, saw the runaway approaching and started his horse in the direction the horse was geing. As the horse came alongside he grabbed the bridle and, telling the frightened woman to hold her seaf and not be afraid, he kept his horse beside the runaway until he was able to pull up the terrified animal. Then he took the young lady off the horse and escorted her to the riding academy. The horse was a thoroughbred and had not been out of his stall in several days. When McKenna caught the horse fidden by James A. Riker, of No. 45 East Fifty-second street, and by George Hodges, of No. 225 West Fifty-seventh street, got beyond their riders' control on the bridle path in the afternoon, but were soon caught, the one by Policeman Green and the other by Foliceman Howard. Hiker was thrown, outescaped harm.

The fourth horse ran away at Eighty-third street on the castern drive. Its rider was a lady who, finding herself unable to hold to her saddle, got to the ground without accident. The animal was caught a short distance away by Policeman Havey.
